Synopsis: This work previously categorized as music video is an interpretation of Esteban Azuela and Yurex Omazkin honoring the music of the mexican punk band Los Viejos. Meticulously edited at 60fps, full of hidden and distorted messages that you can read frame by frame almost like a book. A mockery of the alienation to the images which we live, like the morning when you pass by your timeline and everything you see is narco-terrorism and entertainment and after that you go to work or whatever; our minds have been raped with all this violence. It's like a snake biting its tail while writhing in pain begging for mercy.
